

Global Games Rubric

Criteria	Needs Work (1)	Meets Criteria (2)	Nailed It (3)
Design & Creativity	There is an idea for the board game, but it is not fully developed. The board game is a derivative of an existing game, but almost nothing has been changed from the original.	The board game design is complete but the physical board game is not complete. The board game is a derivative of an existing game and some of the existing game has been converted into the new game.	Everything is neatly created and the board game is fully functional. The board game can be a derivative of an existing game, but most of it has been converted into the new game. It can also be a completely new game.
Directions	There are little to no directions on how to play the board game.	There are directions on how to play the board game, but they are not complete and/or they are difficult to understand.	The directions to the board game are easy to read and understand.
Content & Difficulty	The age range that the game is made for is unknown and the game is either too difficult or too easy for the general public.	The age range that the game is made for is properly listed and the game difficulty is within 3 years of the proper age.	The age range that the game is made for is properly listed and the game difficulty is exactly correct for that age range